Sneak Thieves in Town.

On Wednesday evening, about 6 o'clock, a sneak thief was found in the hall of Mr. S. S. Clay, on Pleasant street, but was frightened away by one of the ladies of the house.

The same evening, and only a short time afterward, a thief entered the hall of Mr. W. A. Hill, Sr., on the same street and about a square and a half from Mr. Clay's, and stole Mr. LITTLETON Purnell's overcoat from the rack. Evidently the same party at both places.

Bower-Trundle Wedding.

Mr. J. A. Bower, of this city, and Miss Laura Trundle, of Stamping Ground, Ky., were quietly married yesterday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the home of the bride's brother-in-law, Mr. H. D. Haynes, at Fern Bank, a suburb of Cincinnati, O. This announcement will be quite a surprise to the many friends of the contracting parties, and well did Mr. Bower keep his secret, it not being known until after he had left the city Wednesday afternoon.

Miss Trundle is the youngest daughter of Mr. John L. Trundle, formerly of this county, and is a young woman of many charms—beautiful, bright and possessing a sweet disposition. She has a large circle of admiring friends in her old home.

Mr. Bower is the Chief Clerk of Supt. W. H. Anderson, of the L. & N., with headquarters in Paris. He has by true worth climbed the ladder in railroad circles until he has reached the most important position he now holds. He is a quiet, unassuming young man and popular with all who know him.

We congratulate him on winning such a lovely life companion and wish them much happiness during the remainder of life's journey.

They left for a trip to New Orleans and other Southern cities and will return in about two weeks. They will board with Mrs. Mary Ireland Davis, on Duncan avenue.

Corn Wanted.

Four hundred (400) barrels of corn wanted.

Sandbagged on Main Street.

Murray Higgins, barkeeper for Major Henry Turney, while on his way home from work, about 12 o'clock, Wednesday night, he was knocked down, by what he says must have been a sandbag, at the corner of Main and Sixth street, and fell unconsciously to the pavement. When he comes to his senses he says he was lying in the street with his overcoat and undercoat unbuttoned as if someone had been through him. His face shows an ugly bruise on his left cheek. Mr. Higgins was in the habit of taking the receipts of the saloon home with him every night, but it so happened that after he closed up Wednesday night he stopped in at Hill & Brannon's and left his sack, containing $65, in their safe. This would be highwayman evidently knew of Higgins' habit of carrying this money home with him and layed for him. "The best electric light plant in Kentucky" had no lights on the streets and you could not see your hand before you. It looks rather bad for a young man to be sandbagged on our principle thoroughfare right in the business portion of our city, yet the city council says two night policemen are enough to patrol the town.

GOOD THINGS.—Dried fruit, mince-meat, oysters and everything that is packed in a can. C. P. Cook & Co.

Don't Look Good to Us.

After the new Main street has been washed off with the hose it don't look good by any means in a number of places. Even the stream of water has washed the gravel loose in places. Then the water stands in puddles here and there, which shows a defect in the grade. We are informed that about $10,000 has already been paid on the street by the city, still they have not yet accepted the job, and the City Council should not accept it or pay another cent on it until the contractors make good. Persons who have seen this kind of streets in other cities have always claimed that there should be another coating to go on Main street before it was completed, but it seems the contractors thought otherwise. It was the contractors first job of building this kind of a street, we have often heard, and the street at least bears this rumor out. Nevertheless, it don't look good to us, and to a large number of citizens besides, and our city fathers should be careful in accepting it.

FRESH oysters and celery daily; some nice grape fruit, too, at L. Saloshin's.

Electric Lights and Gas.

Thursday night, was a good illustration of the "best electric light plant in Kentucky." At the opera house during the performance of "The Burgomaster" the electric lights only went out twice during the performance, the performance closing in total darkness, and after the performance Main Street was so dark you would have to guess at the stepping off places. But "the worstest and the mostest of it" is that when the electric lights go out and you turn on the gas, the odor of sulphur from the gas is almost unbearable. Our citizens have been compelled to put up with this rotten gas until the time has come for something to be done. We are told that cheap coal and bad condition of the purifiers are the causes of this bad gas. It has caused several ladies to faint recently. Something should be done by somebody in regard to the light companies or the people take the matter in hand.
